Providence, Nov. 20 ---

AN OPEN NIGHT

Local poets, musicians, and performers are once again invited to show their wares at AS220 on Friday, November 29. Any and all wishing to perform need only announce themselves at the door; first come, first serve. 8pm.

POWER OF PROVIDENCE PRODUCTIONS PRESENTS

On Saturday, 30, P.O.P.P. will present, in conjunction with AS220, a night of sight, sound, and primal roots.

Paul Feta, Doug Canon, and Tim McFate, amoung others, will push upon viewers a multi-stage, multi-sensory evening in tribute to the past and in apprehension of the future. 8pm.

AS220, urges the R.I. public to see the reflection of its own art community through our unjuried eyes. Located on the 3rd floor of the P.P.A.C., we ask $1 for the nights entertainment, and host a non-alchoholic environment.

Any artists; visual, performing, conceptual, whatever, are invited to call the contact # for any 6 all info.
